The value of a lifetime benefit from OCERS

Most public employees in the United States, including members of OCERS, receive their primary retirement income through a Defined Benefit Plan rather than a Defined Contribution Plan. Because of increasing attention paid to both types of plans, we believe it is critically important that you understand the fundamental differences between the two types of plans, and specifically understand the value of your OCERS benefits.

In a Defined Benefit Plan (also known as a DB Plan), your benefit at retirement is determined by factors such as your plan formula (2.7% at 55, 3% at 50, 2.5% at 55, etc.), years of OCERS-covered service, your Final Average Salary and age at the time of retirement.

Typically, during your active employment, both you and your employer make bi-weekly contributions to OCERS. These contributions become part of the retirement system’s public pension fund. Those contributions are invested under the direction of OCERS’ Investment Committee and a professional investment staff. Funds in OCERS’ $12 billion investment portfolio are used to pay retirement, disability and survivor benefits.

“While there has been a wealth of media coverage as it relates to both Defined Benefit and Defined Contribution Plans in recent years, it is important for you to understand the value of your Defined Benefit Plan,” said Suzanne Jenike, Assistant CEO, External Operations at OCERS.

“OCERS offers many benefits for our members. Once you retire, it provides a lifetime of predictable, guaranteed retirement income, and also offers continuing benefits to eligible survivors.”

In a Defined Contribution Plan (also known as a DC Plan), the participant’s benefit is determined by the amount of assets in their personal account at the time of their retirement and the participant bears all of the risk of stock market fluctuations. The structure of DC plans is very different than the security of a lifetime monthly benefit offered by a public pension plan such as OCERS.

The Summary Plan Description as well as a number of informational brochures and videos are posted on OCERS’ Web site to provide you with more information on OCERS benefits. OCERS’ Pre-Retirement Sessions and Financial Planning Classes also provide important information.

Attention: County of Orange Retirees, Open Enrollment is upon us! This is the time of the year when health plan rates are announced and you have an opportunity to make changes to your elections for the upcoming 2016 plan year.

Open Enrollment: October 30 – November 16, 2015.

The annual Open Enrollment period is the only time during the year (without a qualifying event), that you have the opportunity to enroll or change your medical elections. Your medical benefits will remain the same if you do not make changes. During the month of November, the Employee Benefits Department of the County of Orange will host Open Enrollment meetings to give retirees an opportunity to ask questions from each of the County’s health plans. You will receive your Open Enrollment package prior to October 30 with a schedule of Open Enrollment meetings.

During Open Enrollment, if you are 65 or older and planning to enroll in one of the County’s Medicare Advantage plans, please make your elections early. Enrollment in a Medicare Advantage plan must be approved by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) and depending on the plan you choose, you may be required to send in enrollment and/or disenrollment forms. If your form is not received by the required deadline, or you are not approved by CMS, you will be automatically enrolled in the County’s Wellwise PPO health plan at higher rates.

Be sure to watch your mailbox and carefully review the Open Enrollment materials from the County. For questions about your current benefits, Open Enrollment, or to verify your current mailing address, please visit the official Benefits Web site at www.benefitsweb.com/countyoforange.html or call the Benefits Resource Line toll-free at (866) 325-2345.
On July 20, 2015 OCERS Board approved the 2014 Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (CAFR). The annual report details all financial, investment and actuarial activities for the 2014 calendar year. It highlights major initiatives and significant events that occurred during the year and gives a preview of any known challenges facing the system in the coming year.

OCERS also received the Government Finance Officers Association (GFOA) award for excellence in financial reporting for its 2013 CAFR.

The CAFR is considered a valuable resource for current and historical financial OCERS data. The 2014 CAFR, as well as prior editions, can be viewed and downloaded at www.ocers.org.

Twitter has proven to be an effective tool to send out real-time communications such as press releases, customer service announcements, and updates on when agendas are posted on the OCERS Web site.

Pension Term: “Survivor Benefits”

“Survivor Benefits” are those benefits payable from the Retirement System to your Eligible Spouse/Domestic Partner or Eligible Children after your death. For more information on the subject of Survivor Benefits, see the “Keep your Nominated Beneficiaries up-to-date” article on page 5 of this issue of At Your Service.
Fifty-five percent of American workers do not have a plan for their retirement, according to a survey conducted by LifeCare and the Financial Planning Association (FPA). Sixty-seven percent of those not saving for retirement say they do not have the resources to do so after taking care of their everyday expenses such as housing, transportation, household items, food, eldercare, credit repayment, and 24 percent do not have any idea about how to begin.

When asked what they would speak to a certified financial planner about 56 percent said to figure out how much they need to save for a comfortable retirement, and 50 percent pointed to retirement preparedness.

Understanding the steps you as a member of OCERS can take to help enhance your overall financial health is a key reason to enroll in our free Financial Planning Class. The three night class teaches members worthwhile tools to:

- Create a path to follow and make appropriate financial decisions
- Know when you can retire and how much you will need
- Identify factors that can positively or negatively impact your plan to retire
- Make appropriate investment selections for your short, mid and long-term goals
- Locate resources for further education and planning

The financial advisor will also review topics such as income tax planning, estate planning, proper beneficiary designations, and calculating Social Security benefits among other things. Additionally, an OCERS representative will give an overview of the OCERS pension plan; including the factors that go into payee’s monthly retirement allowance, benefit estimates and disability retirement options.

Members will have an opportunity to meet with the financial advisor once the class is completed at no cost on a one-on-one basis to have specific questions answered. A personalized financial plan will be created with recommendations for the best steps to achieving your financial goals. Attendees have found this individualized planning to be extremely valuable.

Financial Planning Classes are held in OCERS’ Training Room, 2223 E. Wel-lington Avenue, Santa Ana, CA 92701. The 3-night class is free; however, seating is limited so reservations are required. To make your reservation to attend this class, visit www.ocers.org and see the “Retirement Seminars” page.

Keep your nominated beneficiaries up-to-date

It is important to keep your beneficiary designation information up-to-date. In the event of your death, having this information on file will simplify the payment process for your beneficiaries. We recommend that you check to make sure that your designated beneficiary information is correct at least once a year. Keep in mind that OCERS is separate from other employee benefit offices and that beneficiary forms on file with your employer or other offices do not apply to your OCERS account.

When you fill out your Beneficiary Change Form, you have the ability to designate or change both primary and alternate beneficiaries. The one-page form is easy to complete and will offer you and your loved ones greater peace of mind if something should happen to you.

Trusts named as beneficiaries may not receive a monthly continuance; however, a lump-sum death benefit payable to retirees may be named to a trust.

All beneficiary changes must be made in writing with your signature. Members can print the Beneficiary Change Form from our Web site, complete the online form on the Member Information Center (MIC) or contact us for a copy.

There is a wealth of resources on OCERS’ Web site to help you learn more about survivor benefits, including a brochure titled “Survivor Benefits After Retirement” and the Summary Plan Description.

OCERS uses a well-diversified asset allocation to achieve positive long-term results

The summer of 2015 saw extreme volatility in the investment markets both here in the U.S. and around the world, with the stock market sometimes moving up or down several percentage points in a single day.

No matter the reasons for the volatility – and there have been many including a significant slowdown of the Chinese economy – it is important for our members to understand that the OCERS investment portfolio and the retirement system itself is designed to weather good times and bad.

As institutional investors, we certainly pay attention to economic news that may impact specific decisions as they relate to the OCERS portfolio. More importantly, however, OCERS adheres to a strategic asset allocation structured to moderate most short-term shocks in the markets while seeking to provide positive long-term returns to benefit our members.

As the chart in this column illustrates, OCERS’ portfolio is invested in a wide range of strategies and assets. There is a healthy mix of domestic and global equity, domestic fixed income, diversified credit, real estate, private equity, real return (energy, timber, agriculture) and other types of investments being overseen by OCERS’ Investment Committee (comprised of all members of the Board of Retirement), Chief Investment Officer Girard Miller and his Investment Department staff, and professional consultants.

OCERS’ diversified asset allocation has provided long-term results that historically have exceeded OCERS’ 7.25 percent return objective with balanced risks, to withstand significant short-term events in the investment markets.
